

Programme Note

Commissioned with funds provided by the Michael Tippett Foundation, and lasting around 12 minutes, Senedd Sound was first performed on 5 October 2006, on the steps of the Welsh Assembly Building (Senedd) Cardiff Bay by Music Theatre Wales conducted by Michael Rafferty, as part of the Urban Legacies II: Another New Babylon conference.

Reflecting the conference theme of the impact of art and architecture on contemporary urban regeneration, I planned a site-specific work, its form arising from the aesthetic of an audience of casual listeners able to engage with the piece at any point. The bold design of Richard Rogers' Senedd building itself, and its surrounding area, were also at the forefront of my mind when composing this piece, suggesting structural ideas and instrumental colours. For example, the shrill extremes of piccolo, clarinet and steel drums suggest glass, while the bass clarinet, trombone and horn provide the stable foundation.

Nonetheless, performance of this piece is not restricted to the location of the premiere. It may be realised in any suitable context where passers-by engage in an impromptu fashion with the music, caught unawares in a non-formal setting.
