John IRELAND

Berceuse for Violin and Piano H484 £4.50
Although one of Ireland's earliest published works, his Berceuse for violin and piano of 1902 displays the exemplary grace of salon music at its most sophisticated. The finely crafted melody wears lightly the elegance of the genre, as perfectly expressed in Elgar's Chanson de Matin and Salut d'Amour. The Berceuse is also available in arrangements by Graham Parlett for violin and strings and cello and strings (Rental only).

Cavatina for Violin and Piano H383 £7.25
John Ireland's Cavatina for violin and piano, which was probably composed in 1904, also exists in a slightly expanded organ version (H384 Price: £6.80) and in arrangements by Graham Parlett for violin and strings and cello and strings (Rental only). The work shows the composer's mastery of the popular salon style of the time. The Cavatina has been recorded by Lucy Gould and Benjamin Frith on Naxos 8.570507.

Titles include A Thought, Transquil, On the Up, Laid Back and Silence. Copious notes give start-up advice to players of whatever age or standard, from intermediate grade upwards, who are approaching improvisation for the first time.

ADVANCED*Tutors*Robert GERLE

The Art of Practising the Violin B506 £11.75
An outstanding teacher, and a highly regarded recording and concert artist, Robert Gerle studied at the Liszt Academy in Budapest with Geza de Kresz, and numbered Flesch, Thibaud and Enescu among his principal influences. Good bowing and intonation, left-hand practice, sight-reading and memory training are the focus of The Art of Practising the Violin, in which he brought his great depth of practical wisdom to bear on issues that are of concern for all string players.

The Art of Bowing Practice B791 £11.25
Complementary to The Art of Practising the Violin, The Art of Bowing Practice is a detailed study of right-hand technique which matches artistic problems with technical solutions, and shows how the mechanics of the bowing arm, and the holding and moving of the bow, relate directly to aspects of fine tone, phrasing and articulation.

Sonatina for Violin and Piano H471 £9.00
Written in 1933 but here published for the first time, Alwyn's Sonatina is a characteristic work in three short movements – flowing, introspective and ebullient respectively. The elegant piano part is a true duo partner to the violin writing, which shows great understanding of the instrument's capacity for cantabile playing. The Sonatina has been recorded by Madeleine Mitchell and Andrew Ball on Naxos 8.570340.

Favourites with violinists for 90 years, Fiddle Fancies and The Fiddler's Nursery are now available for cellists as well. Wendy Max, one of Britain's most highly respected specialist teachers of young players, has edited the transposed solo part with bowings and fingerings to reflect contemporary approaches to early-stage learning for the instrument, but leaving the music unaltered. No less suited to the cello than to the violin, the results offer ideal material for individual or group tuition of players at pre-grade 1 and elementary level. Fiddle Fancies is set for the Associated Board Music Medals examinations and the Trinity examinations, Grades 2/4. The Fiddler's Nursery is set for the Associated Board examinations, Grade 2 and Music Medals, and the Trinity examinations, Initial Grade and Grade 3.

Diversions for Double Bass and Piano H489 £7.00
Written for Rodney Slatford, Bryan Kelly's Diversions reflect both the composer's admiration for the dedicatee, and his insights into the lively character of the instrument – perhaps even more than the viola the 'Cinderella' of the orchestra, and yet capable of great charm and richness of expression. The winning Raggle Taggle Variants at the heart of the collection brilliantly display several sides of the instrument's character, while an Elegy, an Invention, a Polonaise and a Burlesque showcase its solemnity, its seriousness, its lyric eloquence and its humour. Warmly recommended to young players of around Grade 5 standard.

Skylark H495 £2.50
Set for the Trinity examinations, Grade 3, Skylark is an atmospheric musical impression for pedal or non-pedal harp of the view from the composer's home, overlooking the farmland and broad aerial vistas of Norfolk. Contrasting textures of open arpeggios and accompanied melody convey the various stages of the bird's flight, and its singing from on high, rising to the climax of its song on a musical 'thermal' of sustained, arpeggiated chords before a descent to rest in pastureland. Contemplative, even quietly ecstatic in mood, Skylark will prove an effective element in balanced programme-building, whether as required by the Trinity syllabus, or as engaging repertoire for young players.

String Quartet (1888). Score and Parts H414 £19.00
 An early work that remained unplayed during Delius's lifetime and of which only the last two movements and a fragment of the second survive, the 1888 String Quartet is nonetheless a fascinating addition to our knowledge of this composer's music, and to the late-romantic quartet repertoire in general.
 String Quartet (1916) edited Eric Fenby

Study Score H420 £9.25

GLI EQUIVOCI – Shakespeare the opera

An adventurous ensemble with an ear for a musical rarity, the Free Opera Company Zurich in October 2017 became the first group to produce Stephen Storace's Gli equivoci, based on The Comedy of Errors, in its new, definitive edition in the renowned Musica Britannica series. It was a Swiss first and a continental modern premiere for a sparkling late eighteenth-century opera buffa – by a unique British composer – that received its first UK performance only in 1974, having last been heard in Dresden in 1797.

As in life, as in art, family connections form the kernel of the story. Separated twins are the theme of Shakespeare's early comedy, 'shortened and improved' by Mozart's librettist Lorenzo da Ponte into a hilarious two-act libretto. And it was the family connection of Nancy Storace, Joseph II's favourite soprano, and the first Countess in The Marriage of Figaro in 1786, that prompted the opera-loving Austro-Hungarian Emperor to commission Gli equivoci from her brother Stephen, performed in December of that same year at Vienna's Burgtheater, and by the same cast.

For anyone who was unable to be there in Zurich last October, a selection of production shots at www.freeopera.ch/performances2017 gives a flavour of the company's lively staging directed by Bruno Rauch, with young singers taking the lead in a score that has many opportunities for soloists. With its variety of roles, colourful orchestration, powerful and original ensembles and adaptable stagecraft, Gli equivoci would work as ideally for conservatoire or university productions as on the grand stage of Covent Garden, Glyndebourne or the Coliseum. Opera producers take note!

The Royal Albert Hall, Kensington, London, England

The official title of the structure, opened by Queen Victoria on 29th March 1871, was The Royal Albert Hall of Arts and Sciences, and the building has been used for a rich variety of functions over the years. For instance, the explorer Stanley lectured here to the Royal Geographical Society in 1890; it was used as a cinema in 1905; the Bolshoi Ballet gave the first of many performances in 1960; tennis was played here in 1970; there was ice-skating with John Curry in 1984; and in 1991 sumo wrestling was held – the first time in 1,500 years that a grand basho had been held outside Japan.

This incredibly versatile space hosts over 330 events every year and is celebrated for its legendary performances. On 14th April 1923, the BBC broadcast a recital by contralto Lily Payling, while in October 1950, a concert was given by the Trapp Family Singers (of The Sound of Music fame). The world-famous Henry Wood Promenade Concerts have been held in the hall since 1941 following the destruction of the Queen's Hall in an air raid.

The 'Father' Willis organ, with four manuals and 111 stops was, at its opening, the largest in the world, with the wind pressure being supplied by steam engines in the basement. Additions were made in the 20th century, and there was a complete refurbishment in the early years of the 21st century. While its specification of 147 stops and 9997 speaking pipes currently yields the palm to that of Liverpool's Anglican Cathedral, the largest in the UK, the organ of the Royal Albert Hall remains a unique symbol not only of 'king of instruments', but also of the iconic status of a unique public building.
